The Trenton Massacre--Indignation Meeting in Memphis--Speeches by Jefferson Davis, General Forrest, and Others.

MEMPHIS, August 29.—A large meeting was held last night to express the indignation of the community at the barbarous murder of the colored persons taken from Trenton jail. B M Estes presided, with ex-Governor Harris, Judge Archibald Wright and Chas. Kortrecht as Vice Presidents. Speeches were made by Hon Harris, Jefferson Davis, Colonel Duncan McKee, Gen Forrest and others denouncing the cowardly assassination of the prisoners and calling for a prompt and most energetic enforcement of the law against the perpetrators of the deed. Gen Forrest stated that he stood ready to start to-morrow to assist officers of the law to bring the assassins to punishment. Resolutions were adopted expressing the horror and indignation of the community at the foul crime, demanding of the State Government prompt, energetic measures for bringing the murderers to justice, thus relieving the state as far as possible from the disgrace of such horrible crimes, asking the Governor to employ the police experts of Memphis to assist in capturing the assassins and to employ the best legal talent in the State to assist the Attorney General in prosecuting them.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Deloss Creek gold sells for $15 25 per ounce in Victoria, Thibert Creek gold for $18 per ounce.

The Colonist says: "A well known journeyman baker, who has been in Victoria since 1868, is in jail as a raving maniac."

The Pleiades is now fairly on her beam-ends, and strong hopes are entertained that she will be saved. A peep into her cabin showed no corpses or articles of any kind floating about within.

The Mainland Guardian has a very sensible leading article in advocacy of a public market place in New Westminster for lack of which the interests of both producer and consumer are suffering.

The Guardian learns that $600 has been granted for the repairs to the Custom House in New Westminster and that an appropriation has been recommended for a Custom House at Burrard Inlet.

By the San Francisco bound steamer from Victoria, on August 27th the following [illegible] of treasure were shipped through Wells, Fargo & Co's express: Bank British Columbia, $37,823; F Garesche, $26,066; Bank British North America, $14,948. Total, $78,837.

A meeting was held at the office of Mayor Dickinson, New Westminster on Monday for the purpose of promoting the objects of the Protestant Orphanage at Victoria. The result was the appointment of a committee composed of [illegible] Ward, Dickinson, Major and the Rev Mr Jamieson and Lass. It was decided to take up semi-annual subscriptions.

On Monday of last week Mr John Heal of Lake District, started from his farm to drive a pair of horses attached to a wagon loaded with wood to town, he sitting on the wood. Some little distance beyond his farm in descending a steep hill, the load slipped forward on the horses carrying him with it. The horses broke into a run and are supposed to have dragged him 40 yards, as the wood was found scattered along the road for that distance. When picked up he was quite insensible and remained so three hours afterwards, and is semi-conscious now. Dr Davie was sent for and found that Mr Heal's skull is fractured on the right side. His left leg below the knee is crushed. It is supposed the wheel passed over it, and his body is much bruised.

A hoosier millionaire has been doing Dallas. He came intent on investing his bottom dollar, but unfortunately there was not enough land in Polk county to make him a farm. He has been in Oregon six days, and is convinced that it is no country for an Indiana gentleman to live in, so he shook the Dallas dust from his sandals and flitted Salemward.

NOT GUILTY!

The Report of the Plymouth Church Investigating Committee Submitted to the Church--The Testimony Reviewed --A Disgraceful Episode.

Tilton and Moulton Denounced as Conspirators.

NEW YORK, August 29.—The Plymouth Church Committee submitted its report in Beecher's case in the presence of over 3,000 people. The report reviews the testimony and gives the main points of all the witnesses examined. The former is nothing but history and the latter adds nothing to it except the conclusion of the committee. They denounce Tilton and Moulton as conspirators conspiring to ruin Beecher. The Committee says: It is believed that no case of adultery on record can be produced where an injured husband, upon learning of his wife's infidelity kept the fact to himself for six months and then [illegible] the offending party received and accepted an apology for the offense and declared it forgiven and this followed by a return to the courtesies of friendship. The Committee [illegible] had in his mind no other offense than improper overtures by Beecher and did not believe or understand that it was adultery. They quote the expression in his letter to Beecher: "You can stand if the whole case were published to-morrow," and doubt the idea that he could write thus knowing that he was an adulterer in the case, and conclude this branch of the case by branding the performance as a fraud which ought to end all controversy as to the innocence of Mr Beecher.

Moulton's Connection with the Scandal.

They then go on to speak of Moulton's connection with the affair in the character of a mutual friend, and admit that he obtained a strong hold upon Beecher's mind by his plausible manner and his apparently sincere desire to serve him. Beecher knew that the accusation though false, would if it became public, cause great scandal, and having an immense deal of labor on his hands he entrusted to Moulton the task of keeping this false accusation from the public. Strong language and the tenor of some of Mr Beecher's letters to Moulton in reference to the matter are freely admitted by the Committee, but they say it must be remembered that using strong words and emotional expressions are characteristic of Beecher. The Committee here advert to the possibility that Mrs Tilton had come to regard Beecher with such affection as under the circumstances tended to alienate her from her husband, and a fear that this was so as was alleged by both Moulton and Tilton, may have added to Beecher's responsibilities.

Beecher's Errors.

The Committee express regret at two errors into which [illegible] fell. One was that in his trouble he did not seek counsel from Christian men of his own brotherhood, rather than rely upon the counsel of a man of whom he knew so little and whose character, as the sequel proved, he so sadly misjudged. The other was that he did not guard more closely his relations with the family of Tilton so that there could be no possibility for fear in his own mind even of an undue affection by Mrs Tilton for him through any thoughtless friendship or agency of his. We find nothing whatever in the evidence that should impair the perfect confidence of Plymouth Church or the world in the Christian character and integrity of Henry Ward Beecher. And now let the peace of God that passeth all understanding rest and abide with Plymouth Church and its beloved and eminent pastor so much and so long afflicted."

Tilton's Cruelty to his Wife.

The Committee then take up the question as to the harmony and happiness which Tilton alleges ruled in his home until this trouble came upon him, and shows by the testimony of Mrs Tilton and Mrs. (Miss?) Turner that the exact reverse was the case, and that Tilton was constantly guilty of great cruelty to his wife.

No Evidence that would Stand in Court.

The Committee then quote from legal authorities to show the nature of evidence necessary to prove a charge of adultery and show that not a particle of evidence, such as the law requires has been produced by the accuser of Mr Beecher and that no suspicious circumstances even were proved.

Findings of the Committee.

The Committee compare the life and character of the accuser and the accused and conclude from the evidence that Rev H W Beecher did not commit adultery with Mrs Tilton, neither at the time or times or place or places set forth in the third and fourth subdivisions of Mrs Tilton's statement, nor at any other time or place. Furthermore we find from the evidence that Mr Beecher has never committed an unchaste or improper act with Mrs Tilton, nor made any unchaste or improper remark, proffer or solicitation to her of any kind or description whatever.

In reference to Mrs Tilton's course, the Committee show that she was greatly under the influence of her husband to such an extent indeed as to make her hardly responsible at all times for what she did.

The Committee then refer to the charge that Beecher paid $5,000 to get the girl Bessie Turner out of the way, and declare that it is too absurd for belief as there were too many people to whom Tilton had published the story of his wife's alleged criminality with Beecher to make it possible for the latter to get rid of all of them.

The report was signed unanimously and was received with great applause.

The "Mutual Friend" makes a Scene.

Moulton was present and during a speech by Mr Raymond, who was called upon, he (R) spoke of Moulton as having tried to poison the minds of men against Mr Beecher. The mutual friend rose to his feet and shouted excitedly: "You are a liar sir!" Great excitement followed and there were loud cries of "Put him out!" "Put him out!" "For shame," etc. Mr Moulton rose to his feet and shouted, "I dare any of you to put me out."

The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted:

A Formal Verdict of Not Guilty.

Resolved, That the evidence before the Examining Committee not only does not afford any foundation for putting the pastor of the Church, Rev Henry Ward Beecher, upon trial, but on the contrary establishes to the perfect satisfaction of the Church his entire innocence and absolute personal purity with respect to all charges now or hereafter made against him by Theodore Tilton.

Resolved, That our confidence in and love for our pastor far from being diminished are heightened and deepened by the unmerited sufferings which he has so long borne, and that we welcome him with a sympathy more tender and a trust more unbounded than we ever felt before, to his public labors among us, to our Church, our families, our homes, our hearts.

The Feeling against Moulton.

At the close of the meeting the doxology was sung and the people began to disperse. Moulton, who occupied a seat at the reporters' table, was hustled considerably on the way out, and there were indications that had he not been protected by police violence would have been offered to him. Upon reaching the door he was hurried to a carriage, and with a policeman on each side the steps, was driven rapidly away, and the people dispersed.

The Mutual Friend Threatens.

NEW YORK, August 29.—Frank Moulton has a card to-day stating that he notified the Beecher Committee that he was ready to be cross examined at any time, but that the Committee took no notice of his offer. Consequently he went to Plymouth Church last night, having a right to be there as a member of the congregation and his wife being a member of that Church. After hearing misrepresentations in their report he sent a note to the Moderator requesting to be heard, but was not so permitted. Moulton says he has in his possession a letter from Beecher stating that Raymond, who made the attack on him (Moulton) has [illegible] knows nothing about the case, although Raymond himself publicly stated he knew all about it. Moulton says he will have all the letters printed and concludes his card as follows: "I have sought for four years for the sake of the innocent children of two families to shield Beecher from an exposure of his crime of adultery, but Mr Beecher, his Committee and his church have united to compel me for my own self-protection to reveal him to the world as I shall shortly reveal him in a still worse light than that in which he now stands."

SENATOR JONES DINED.—Thomas Murphy gave last evening a dinner to Senator J. P. Jones of Nevada at the Union League Club House. Among the invited guests were Wm B Dinsmore, Wm Orton, John Hoey, Henry Clews, Isaac H Bailey, General Porter, George H Pullman, General Hillhouse and General Sharp. This dinner was given to Senator Jones—who leaves for Nevada this week—as a compliment on the occasion of his purchase from Mr Murphy of a plot of ground on the beach at Long Branch, with the view of building a house thereon and of living therein during the summer season. The house will be next door but one to the President's cottage.—N. Y. Herald, 15th inst.

ENTERPRISING FRENCHMEN.—The French Government has recently voted the sum necessary for the formation of a great inland sea in Algeria, 190 miles long by 30 broad, to the south of Biskara. It is thought by the Revue des Deux Mondes that the result of this measure will be a great improvement of the climate in the interior, a great addition to the facilities for inland transport, and the introduction of commerce and civilization into the very heart of Africa. The estimated cost is only fifteen millions of francs, and the engineering difficulties, after the experience gained during the construction of the Suez Canal, would be inconsiderable.

FARMING ITEMS.

A Eugene paper of Saturday says: "We have not heard of any sale of the new crop of wheat in Lane county. The price thus far offered, 70 cents, is no inducement to farmers."

Charley Rondeau, who lives about eight miles above Oakland on the Calapooia, sowed four and a half bushels of club wheat on two acres of ground and threshed from the same 100 bushels of clean wheat.

The Baker City Herald, of August 26th, says: "Harvesting is going on briskly all over the Powder river valley. Many of our farmers are cutting with the reaper instead of header this year in order to save the straw for feed."

The Lafayette Courier wants this beaten: "Mr J K Simpson of this place, harvested a piece of wheat on the Mulhcan farm, which he has rented, that yielded over forty five bushels to the acre. We did not learn how many acres there was in the piece."

The Grangers of Chehalem valley have incorporated for the purpose of building a warehouse on the Willamette river near the Rogers Landing. The name of the corporation is the Winooski Warehouse Company. The incorporators are: S Brutscher, D Rumsey, D Everest, P H Hagey and Wm Jones.

The Dalles Mountaineer says: "Wagon loads of wheat have commenced rolling into town. We saw the Hon Robert Mays, member elect to the next State Legislature, seated on a load of wheat, driving through town en route for Mr Pentland's mill. He was covered with dust to such a depth that we could hardly recognize him."

A gentleman just arrived from Whatcom reports that the crops of wheat, oats and barley along the Swinomish slough are enormous and that the thick stacks of grain reminded him of the crops in the prairie State. The farmers are now threshing out their grain. They expect to load a vessel with grain and take it direct to San Francisco. The vegetable crops on the Swinomish are also very large this season.

The State Grange of Oregon commences its first annual session on Tuesday the 15th day of September at Salem, and as it is to be one of the most important meetings ever to be held by that Order, the attention of its members is called to the importance of all being present to assist with their experience to shape the future course of the Order. Each member should come forward with his notes of changes that he may deem necessary for the good of the Order, and each one should come prepared and determined to remain until the work is all completed, fixing no particular time for departure, but to remain and work with patience until the work is done.

A few days ago, says the Eugene Journal, while making a brief drive through the country we were astonished to see miles of wheat fields yet standing ready for the reaper. On the farm of I R and J H Moores, a few miles below Eugene, there will be about fifteen thousand bushels of wheat raised this year. This farm contains 1,800 acres and is one of the finest and most beautiful in this or any other country. It is in charge of Mr Wm Hill, who has it rented. He has a steam thresher and reaper and all the latest improvements in farming implements. Mr Howard on Long Tom also has a steam thresher. It is estimated that there will be 100,000 bushels of wheat more grown in Lane county this year than there was last year.

On Tuesday Mr O A Bringle, of Pleasant Hill, Lane county, got the two middle fingers of his left hand caught in a threshing machine which mashed them to a jelly.

There are some hoodlums in Lafayette who nightly engage in the nefarious practice of tearing down signs from one place and putting them upon other people's buildings.

Last week Zach Moore was arrested at Eugene on a charge of supplying Indians with whisky, and on examination was bound over for his appearance in the sum of $100.

A band of Umatilla Indians passed through Baker City last Sunday week en route for the upper country with several hundred head of horses, some of which were really valuable.

A man whose name we did not learn, but who was under bonds in Polk county to answer a charge of grand larceny, was found drowned in one of the Tillamook streams last week.

Mr Craven, of Rye Valley, has bought the stage line of Dave Sisley and will run a weekly line to Connor Creek, by the way of Rye Valley. He will also run a line from Baker City to Auburn.

A meeting of the citizens of Jackson county will be held at Ashland on Wednesday, Sept 9th, to take into consideration the practicability and the feasibility of the proposed Humboldt and Pacific Railroad.

The Courier learns that one of the teams that left Crescent City week before last for Rogue River Valley, loaded with the machinery of a grist mill, upset on the Lewis Hill and several of the large castings were broken.

The Call learns that Hon G Webster, Coos county's hold over Senator, has recently been East and bought and secured the title to the town site of Marshfield, Coos county, which has for a long time been in litigation.

Thos McDonald of San Francisco, and F L Burnham, late of Portland, are at Rye Valley, Baker county, getting all things ready to put up Greene's new quartz-mill, which is to be shipped from San Francisco on the 30th.

The public school of Albany contains about 200 pupils, and is of a very high grade. There is also a select school with forty or fifty scholars, while about 120 attend the College, so that the number of school children and students is not far from 360.

Hon Binger Hermann is about getting up a company to navigate the Coquille river with a steamboat. The products of the upper valley are numerous and varied, and there is no good reason why a small steamer should not pay well on that river.

The scow, Two Sisters, left Rogue river for San Francisco two weeks ago having a cargo consisting of 300 barrels of salmon, 1,100 cases of canned salmon and 150 sacks of wool, all consigned to Donald Beadle. She was five days making the passage down.

There is a lively interest being taken by the people of Eastern Oregon in the success of the proposed Blue Mountain Seminary, located at La Grande. The Trustees desire to have school commence with the beginning of the winter term, and everything will be properly arranged so as to make the University and its surroundings pleasant for students.

On last Wednesday afternoon, nearly the whole town of Lafayette assembled at the river to witness the blasting of the ledge of rocks just below the new bridge. Although the blasting was only intended as an experiment it developed the fact that the channel can be made large enough, at a reasonable cost, to enable steamboats of light draught to ascend the river to that point the year round.

A special session of the Oregon State Woman Suffrage Association will convene in Salem on Tuesday, September 22d, at 10 A. M. Members are requested to be promptly on hand at the time specified, ready and willing to work. The Vice Presidents of the Association are requested to be present if possible and if not to forward written reports of the work in their respective localities to the Secretary, Mrs C A Coburn, at Portland by the 15th of September.

Gentlemen who have recently examined the wagon road being constructed at the Cascade Portage on the line of the Dalles and Sandy road, under the contract awarded to Mr Humason, state that about twenty men are employed and the work is being pushed forward rapidly. The portage from the Upper to the Middle Landing it is expected will be completed in about thirty days. Mr J H Moshier has charge of the grading and Mr Chastain of constructing the bridges.

The Cabell quartz ledge in Baker county was discovered on the 20th day of April last, and in June Mr Cabell commenced taking out rock, and since that time $60,000 worth of rock has been taken out, and there is now at the lowest calculation $150,000 worth of rock in sight. This ledge is about 70 miles distant from Baker City and 30 miles from Canyon City. Timber and water are plenty and of the best quality. The Elk creek district is truly a mining district. There are a large number of ledges there that have been partially opened and prospected, but for want of capital and facilities to work the rock are not now worked.

Hon L L Leland, who has been lecturing up in Grant county, sends the following: On the evening of the 18th inst I organized Revival Lodge, I O G T, at Prairie City, and the following officers were elected and duly installed: R Morehead, W C T; Jas T Sullens, W S; Mrs Emma Sullens, R S W C T; Miss M Morehead, L S W C T; Miss Ellen Morehead, W V T; Edwin Shaw, W F S; O Baird, W T; Hill Hyde, W M; Miss Jennie Derdorff, D M; J H Frakes, P W C T; F Hardman, W C; N Sullens, W I G; W Hardman, W O G; Miss Alice Shaw, W A S; O Baird, Lodge Deputy.

The Baker City Democrat of August 29th says: "On last Saturday Mrs Shaw, mother of Mrs E A Miller, Mrs Boothby and of D H Shaw, with the latter of whom she lived, fell from a wagon, and striking her head, her neck was broken. Mrs Shaw was quite an old lady and was keeping house for her son on a ranch about eight miles above this city. On this day becoming lonesome she prevailed on her son to let her accompany him to the meadow where he and another man was loading and hauling hay. She was on the wagon and by some accident fell. Her son heard her call his name as she started to fall, but was not able to save her."

Speaking of Albany, the Statesman says: "The first settlement was made here in 1845, the town was laid out three years after and the first cabin was erected in 1849. From that time to the present the town has kept even pace with the development of the country, and has slowly but surely grown up upon a substantial foundation. There is nothing flashy or showy about Albany; its wealth is solid and available, and where there is occasion for the employment of large capital, there is no end to its capacities, as it is backed up by the rich and powerful agricultural neighborhood. Linn county people are always prepared to do whatever they like, so far as money is concerned."

The Oakland Call says: "Mr Petree is digging a well in the northern portion of this village, and at the depth of fifteen feet—seven feet under the bedrock—he unearthed a snakey looking something, which he brought into our office for inspection, and we have it now on exhibition, free. It is four feet long and nine inches in circumference around the neck, resembles a petrified snake very much, although it may be a tooth from a Philistine's [illegible] for what we know. We have had the opinion of about 300 persons as to what it is, but are no nearer a conclusion than at first. If Prof Condon or any other geologist passes this way we would like to have his opinion. It is evidently something petrified, and we want to know what it was. We don't know what day Gabriel may toot a [illegible] and if the thing ever crawled we don't want it to reanimate near our boots, some of the good angels might think it belonged around [illegible]."

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 31, 1874.

THE ONE THING NEEDFUL.

The real situation of Oregon becomes more and more apparent every day. Greater and more pressing than any other want to the State of Oregon is the want of people—population. We need home manufactures, we need better facilities for the transportation of our home products, we need more direct [illegible] do with the principal marts of commerce; but first of all, and above all, and as the sole condition precedent to all, we need more people. Let there be settled in the rich valleys of this State a half million of people, and all the other things we need shall be added, and that right speedily. Given a population of 500,000 or even 300,000, and vessels would fill our harbors, our imports would come directly from the land of their production without any additions to price for handling in San Francisco, and our home manufactures would be extended to every branch of industry which the immense and varied resources of the country render possible. We should become exporters instead of importers of agricultural implements, and of all manner of iron products from a shingle nail to a T rail. We should supply the iron that is to be used throughout the vast area of the Pacific coast. We should furnish the lumber of a region large enough for an Empire. We should lead the fruit market of the world. We should ship more breadstuffs to foreign countries than we now dream of. We should surpass Texas and Colorado in the production of beef, and beat the world in putting up salmon. Gold and silver, copper, lead, quicksilver, coal, have all been scattered by the Creator with lavish profusion over our State, and we have timber enough to build the fleets of all the world for an indefinite length of time. Droughts never come to wither our crops, storms to destroy our improvements, locusts to eat out the substance of the land, nor epidemics to sweep away our people and sink our hopes and aspirations in the grave. Industry is not deprived of its rewards nor energy of its inspiration, in this peculiarly favored clime.

This is Oregon, not overdrawn in a single feature, as all [illegible] attest who have been long enough here to have become thoroughly acquainted with the peculiarities of the State. And yet we have less [illegible] of population, while regions [illegible] inhabited wastes when Oregon [illegible] settled up, [illegible] which in [illegible] to be compared to Oregon's natural advantages, have developed [illegible] splendid States, splendid alike [illegible] magnitude of their population and in their material wealth and prosperity.

Why is this so? Why do the other new States so outstrip Oregon? A single fact contains the whole reason: They are accessible, while Oregon can be reached only at great expense of money, and with great trouble and inconvenience. In that fact lies the secret of the backwardness of our beautiful country. In the opening of direct and convenient communication with the Atlantic States, and in that alone, will be found the solution of the problem of Oregon's high destiny. The "open sesame" that is to let our people into all the blessings, moral, mental and material, which civilization can confer, is "Railway." Let us have a railway to the East, whether it be the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake, the Northern Pacific, the Pengra line, or some line not yet thought of, and the stream of immigration that would pour in upon us would bring our numbers up to 300,000, and 300,000 more, almost before we were conscious of the change that was going on. A railway to the East, by increasing our population and multiplying our industries, would give local railways to every section, as they have them at the East; would open our mines; would give employment to our laborers, would turn our forests into wharves and docks, and mansions, and ships for all the civilized world. Without this Oregon and her sister Washington Territory—whose interests and resources are so like our own that we can never think of the one without the other—have no future within the lifetime of any man now living; but give us this and there is no good thing that any people possess which ours might not have, and no prosperity which we might not reasonably expect to enjoy.

THE "PLATFORMS"

For the last two weeks the manœuvers of the politicians of the Atlantic States have afforded genuine amusement to that class of spectators of such proceedings who know how empty most of the pretensions of the party managers are. They are getting ready for the fall elections, and the way they do so is the old way that has served so well in times past. It consists for the most part in the manufacture of platforms. If all the platforms presented to the intelligent voters within the fortnight past by either party were brought together into a single document, three-fifths of that document would be meaningless buncombe, one-fifth stale platitudes and truisms that nobody would think of questioning, and the remaining fifth contradictions and inconsistencies. Each party, everywhere, points to itself "with pride and satisfaction" and to the other party "with indignation," and each everywhere resolves that the experience of the past has demonstrated that the welfare of the country will be best promoted by electing the nominees of that particular party. Just why this is so is never defined so clearly as to bring the reason within the comprehension of the non-partisan intellect. Then it is invariably declared that a sound financial system is extremely desirable, without any statement as to what is considered a sound financial system. The amount of the currency also is to be so regulated as to meet the wants of trade, but whether the Conventions that have inundated the land with these declarations of sentiment believe the wants of trade require inflation or contraction does not appear. Then, in one form or another we have the hackneyed joke of "a judicious tariff" over and over again. And it is really refreshing to see with what depths of gratitude these makers of smooth phrases remember the soldiers and sailors of the Republic. All parties "remember the sacrifices made by our noble army and navy to preserve the Union and the blessings it bestows." It is indeed remarkable that so ardent an affection manifests itself so little after the elections are over. In the way of contradictions the Democracy stand first. They are for free trade in Maine, for high tariff in Pennsylvania, for revenue tariff further West; they are for paying off the debt in greenbacks at one place, in coin at another, and in the next they dodge the question by declaring for its payment "according to contract." The Democrats all denounce the Civil Rights Bill, and the Republicans nowhere have the courage to avow themselves in favor of it.

There is no unanimity on the essential, vital questions of the hour in either party. They can agree upon a few glittering generalities, but not upon any solution of the problems that press upon the country to-day. There is certainly a demand for more statesmanship and less of the skill of the politician.

At last the report of the Beecher Investigating Committee has been made. The Committee did just what everybody knew they would do. It must be borne in mind while reading this document that it is not evidence but argument. The public will decide for itself upon the correctness of the Committee's views. If the Committee publish all the evidence the public mind will be made up soon, otherwise the verdict will be formed little by little as the evidence shall leak out. It will be time enough to express an opinion when the evidence is out.

The scene in Plymouth Church, in which Francis D. Moulton figures, is not particularly creditable to that gentleman. He would better have [illegible] his fee, though, if he is the man of honor that he has been represented to be, the public charge of conspiracy and falsehood must have been hard to bear.

The members of the Committee on Licenses of the Boston Board of Aldermen attended a new play, "Passion's Perils," founded on the Brooklyn scandal and produced by the managers of the Howard Athenæum. On the following day they notified the managers that they considered the play "not conducive to good morals and offensive to the public sentiment of the community," and that unless the play was withdrawn and the posters announcing it removed from the public streets, the theater's license would be revoked. The managers yielded to the censors, and Boston is severely virtuous again. This is said to be the first instance in which the Committee on Licenses has ever exercised its right of censorship over a dramatic performance.

It is announced that General B. F. Butler will run for Congress in the Sixth Congressional District of Massachusetts. In the present Congress he represents the Fifth District, which comprises nearly all of Essex county. The Sixth is General Banks' district. It comprises parts of Essex and Middlesex counties. It is generally understood that Banks will be a candidate. A correspondent of the New York Times says Banks is recognized as the strongest man, perhaps, in the district. The Essex Statesman quietly changed his place of residence a few weeks ago, and the situation seems to call for the strongest man—if the Hamilton Hall faction want to beat Butler.

Here it is, from laws of a general nature passed by the Forty-third Congress and published by authority in the Washington (D. C.) Chronicle:

For surveying the public lands in Oregon, at rates not exceeding $15 per linear mile for standard lines, $14 for township, and $12 for section lines, and for heavily-timbered lands lying west of the Cascade mountains, at augmented rates, not exceeding $18 per linear mile for standard, $16 for township and $14 for section lines, $60,000.

"For surveying the public lands:" that's a cheerful way of putting it.

A Boston dispatch in Eastern exchanges says a prominent merchant in that city has information from San Francisco to the effect that at least 700 ships, of 1,200 tons each, will be required to carry the surplus grain crop to Europe this season, and that not more than 550 can now be reckoned on for that purpose.

Thomas Raines, State Treasurer of New York, who was temporarily suspended a few months on account of a mental disorder, has wholly recovered and resumed his office.

WAIT TILL THE HARVEST IS OVER.

SHERIDAN, Aug. 26, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Seeing that some of the speculators in grain are blaming the farmers for not forwarding their grain to market, and declaring that shipping will be banished from our waters, I venture to suggest to these kind wing ones to have patience and wait till our wheat gets ripe, as there has not been more than one-tenth of the crop harvested yet. The wheat this year is of good quality, and will be in the market in about two or three weeks, perhaps not so soon from many parts of the valley. Harvest hands are scarce, and those who have threshed their wheat are engaged with threshers and headers and cannot haul their grain to market yet. I think the shippers will understand by this that the grain is from two to four weeks later than common, and not blame the farmers for all the delay in not getting cargoes. You will do the farmers a favor, and the shippers too, by inserting this in your paper.

B. B. BRANSON.

SCANDAL AND MURDER.

[From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Aug. 15, 1874.

Jacob Stoves was arrested last night for the murder of J. K. Clark, whom he shot and instantly killed yesterday. Both parties were farmers and had been living on friendly terms on farms joining each other for several years; but about a year ago Stoves discovered that, under the guise of friendship, Clark had won the affections of his (Stoves') wife, and for some time criminal intimacy had been kept up between them. Stoves immediately tried every way in his power to break the intimacy, but failed, and as a last resort sold out and took his wife with him to Illinois, where he hoped she might forget her paramour. But after remaining there a short time he discovered that his wife and Clark corresponded regularly. He, therefore, with his wife, returned here last Wednesday, for the purpose of procuring a divorce. He had been in the city but a few hours when they met Clark and his wife on a hunt for a divorce, to which Mrs. Clark, by the threats of her husband, had been forced to consent. Clark and Stoves spent the day together, trying to arrange matters, as, under an agreement, Clark was to pay Stoves $1,000. Failing to come to any understanding the four returned to Silver Creek. Yesterday Stoves asked his wife if it could not be settled by her remaining with him. Both Clark and Mrs. Stoves returned a decided negative, when Stoves, speaking to Clark, said, "Then it is between you and me—one of us must go." Getting a shotgun, he hunted up Clark and shot him through the head and heart, killing him instantly. The preliminary examination will be held in a day or two as soon as the witnesses can be got on the ground. Under the advice of his lawyers Stoves refuses to converse.

CITY.

AN INSANE PATIENT DROWNED.—The Dalles Mountaineer, of last week, says: "Sheriff Schutz having received information that a [illegible] person was prowling about the neighborhood of Thorn Station, on the Canyon City road, between Cross Hollows and Bakeoven, the description of which answered to that of a person he was looking for, went out and arrested the man, from whom he learned that his name was Wm. Crickett, and that he had escaped from the Insane Asylum at F[illegible] A Portland some time in the month of July. Sheriff Schutz had got his man to Mr. Sheats's place, at the crossing of the Deschutes, and took the hand-cuffs off that he might wash and prepare for dinner. Watching his chance when Mr. Schutz commenced washing, he broke away, running toward the river, closely pursued by Mr. S., plunged into the stream just below the falls, and in a few moments was caught in a whirl and disappeared. Mr. S. did all within his power to persuade him from his self-destructive intention while running to the river, but the poor fellow thought he would rather die than live, and be out of his misery. Which conclusion no doubt was a correct one, as he was beyond cure, and appeared more like a brute than a human being."

PASSENGERS.—The steamer John L. [illegible] which sailed from San Francisco for Portland last Saturday, brings the following passengers: [illegible] N H Davis, U S A; [illegible] [illegible] Jacob Meyer, Jerome [illegible] T E Logan and wife, A W Crossman, W Friedman and wife, [illegible] Gunbruner, J Graves and family, A J Ferguson, [illegible] Kline, Dr E O Smith, E Eikels, [illegible] Adams, Mrs F M Clark and two children, [illegible] Dodley, S Neugass, J Davis, [illegible] and wife, Mrs M F Spillan and [illegible] Miss M E Gibson, W M Morton, Miss Hanley, [illegible] Zan, W O Brown, Mrs W [illegible] Hodgdon, S Rosenblatt, [illegible] and wife, M Rosenblatt, [illegible] Shannon and three children, [illegible] family, J W Burnham, [illegible] children, Otto Hilpert, E W [illegible] Lamb, Mrs A Wheeler, J Sternb[illegible] and family, Mrs Yoakum, J A Kahn, J [illegible] Yoakum, J G Parker, H D [illegible] Briggs, Dr S Parker, Mrs D Howard, [illegible] Clark, Miss J Atkinson, [illegible] Miss A Shaw, R Cohn.

BODY FOUND.

Since the abandonment of the search for the body of Harry Pierce, the unfortunate young man who was drowned on Sunday evening, [illegible] inst., but little thought has been given to the accident. Saturday afternoon, about two o'clock, the remains were discovered floating not far from the place opposite the foot of Oak street, near the fatal spot where the man was lost from human sight. Notice was given and the body was brought to the shore. It was found to be badly decayed and swollen almost beyond recognition. The body was soon removed to the undertakers, and the Coroner notified. However, an inquest was not held until yesterday forenoon. Rumors were afloat that the body bore indications of personal violence about the face and a contusion on the head, foul play, it was intimated, had probably been practiced, and no small degree of interest attached to the result of the inquest. Dr. J. Pilkington was summoned and made a careful examination of the body. His sworn statement before the jury dispelled all suspicions of foul play, as he pronounced it a case of simple drowning. There was no evidence of violence found about the body at all. A very thorough and rigid examination was conducted by Coroner Wetmore, but it failed to elicit anything more than a case of accidental drowning. It was clearly established that Pierce, like his companions in the boat, was more or less under the influence of liquor; that the craft had suddenly sprung a leak and sunk, and that the deceased, instead of making an effort to save himself, went down and perished. After satisfying themselves as to the circumstances of the drowning, the jury returned the following verdict:

"An inquest taken at Portland, Oregon, before J. A. Wetmore, Coroner of Multnomah county, upon the body of Wm. H. Pierce, formerly of Plymouth, England, do say, upon our oath, that the said Pierce came to his death by accidental drowning, while crossing the Willamette river in a leaky boat, at or about 9 o'clock P. M., on the 22d of August, 1874. ENOCH TURNER, Foreman. [illegible] Morris, Geo. H. Himes, H. R. Leonard, W. W. Bishop, John Cronn."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Business men going to New York will find the Brandreth House, corner of Broadway, Canal and Lispenard streets, the most conveniently situated hotel in the city. It is in the very centre of the largest business houses, and all points can be reached from its doors, by city cars or by omnibuses. Parties can reach the Brandreth House by the various city cars or omnibuses running from the stations and landings. This hotel, being situated on three open streets, and not surrounded by other buildings, is more free from the dangers of fire than most hotels. It is conducted on the European plan, and has just been put in thorough good order, making it one of the cleanest and most comfortable houses in New York. See card in our advertising columns.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

This evening the third anniversary ball of the Portland Turn Verein will take place at Ankeny's Hall. Though early in the season for indoor dancing, we have no doubt but that Ankeny's Hall will be comfortably filled, as the Turners never fail to make their sociable affairs enjoyable to all. That is sufficient.

As we were passing the "White House," on Saturday, we observed the ladies crowd the show window and wondered what was there to attract their attention. Upon closer inspection we discovered a display of "Lotta" hats, which are all the rage in San Francisco. We learned that Mrs. Hopkinson, with this house, brought them up on the last steamer. The ladies must look charming with a Lotta hat perched upon their heads.

CITY.

AN INSANE PERSON DROWNED.—The Dalles [illegible] of last week says: Sheriff Schutz [illegible] having received information that a suspicious person was prowling about the neighborhood of Thorn Station, on the Canyon City road, between Cross Hollows and Bakeoven, the description of which answered to that of a person he was looking for, went out and arrested the man, from whom he learned that his name was Wm Crickett and that he had escaped from the Insane Asylum at East Portland some time in the month of July. Sheriff Schutz had got his man to Mr Shearer's place, at the crossing of the Deschutes, and took the hand-cuffs off that he might wash and prepare [illegible]. Watching his chance, when Mr Schutz commenced washing he broke away, running toward the river, closely pursued by Mr S; plunged into the stream just below the fall and in a few moments was caught in a whirl and disappeared. Mr S did all within his power to persuade him from his suicidal intention while running to the river, but the poor fellow thought he would rather die than [illegible] and be out of his misery, which no doubt was a correct one, as he was [illegible] and appeared more like a brute than a human being.

PASSENGERS.—The steamer John L. Stephens, which sailed from San Francisco for Portland last Saturday, brings the following passengers: [illegible] A H Davis, U S A, R Bailey, Thomas [illegible], Jacob Meyer, Jerome Harper, J I [illegible], T E Logan and wife, C Lzafovage, A [illegible], A B Crossman, W Fried, Fredman and wife, [illegible], W P Adams, J E Ban[illegible], J Graves and family, A J Ferguson, [illegible], Dr E O Smith, E Fikels, Sam Redlich, [illegible] Adams, Mrs [illegible] M Clark and two daughters, [illegible] S Neugass, J Davis, Captain G John[illegible] and wife, Mrs M P Spillan and daughter, Miss M F Gibson, W M Morton, Miss Hanley, [illegible], W O Bacon, Mrs V Hall, Miss M J [illegible], S Rosenblatt, H Ackerson, A Dupey and wife, M Rosenblatt, J E Burns, Mrs J M [illegible] and three children, W D Cadlipp and family, J W Burnham, Mrs Henry Green and children, Otto Hilpert, E M Biddle, Mrs L [illegible], Mrs A Wheeler, J Sternberg, B Kelsey and family, Mrs Yoakum, J A Kuhn, J F Yoakum, J G Parker, H D Gibson and son, B [illegible] Dr S Parker, Mrs D Howard, I D Clark, Miss [illegible] Atkinson, Miss Anna Breck, Mrs Shaw, F Kohn.

[illegible].—In the Police Court on Saturday morning the preliminary examination of Mary Philemon and the colored man Howard, charged with assault with intent to kill [illegible] Phil Johnson, came up. During the progress of the examination it became very evident that the woman Philemon had done the stabbing. She was held to answer the charge before the grand jury in the sum of $1,000 and in default was committed to jail. Howard and Johnson were both held to appear [illegible] the sum of $100 each, and in default of the necessary bonds were sent to jail. Johnson is getting along very well, and there are no doubts as to his recovery.

PERSONAL.—Mr R A White of this city, who is seventy three years of age, recently made two trips in the country west of the city on foot for the purpose of hunting. The whole distance traveled was sixty miles each way, all within five days. In rest of twenty [illegible] being taken before making the second trip, and during the time he was out he [illegible] the nights under roof. The undertaking may be put down as a big thing in pedestrianism for one of his age.

MALICIOUS.—Some scamp cut the halyards [illegible] the Portland Battery's flagstaff, yesterday afternoon. When Mr Wall came down to take the flag in but of the rain he discovered the starry banner lying on the roof of the [illegible] having blown in that direction. If any of the soldier boys catch the parties who [illegible] work of mischief they will [illegible] overhauling.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—We are informed by the Directors that the public schools of the city will open on next Monday, one week from today. The Directors have been for several days engaged in changing the divisions of the District, some material alterations having been made, of which due notice will be given during the present week.

BODY FOUND.

Since the abandonment of the search for the body of Harry Pierce, the unfortunate young man who was drowned on Sunday evening 23d inst., but little thought has been given to the accident. Saturday afternoon about two o'clock the remains were discovered floating, not far from the shore opposite the foot of Oak street, near the fatal spot where the man sank from human sight. Notice was given and the body was brought to the shore. It was found to be badly decayed and swollen almost beyond recognition. The body was soon [illegible] to the undertakers and the Coroner notified. However an inquest was not held until yesterday forenoon. Rumors were afloat that the body bore indications of personal violence—cuts about the face and a contusion on the head. Foul play it was intimated had probably been practiced, and no small degree of interest attached to the result of the inquest. Dr J B Pilkington was summoned and made a careful examination of the body. His sworn [illegible] before the jury dispelled all suspicions of foul play as he pronounced it a case of simple drowning. There was no evidence of violence found about the body at all. A very thorough and rigid examination was conducted by Coroner Wetmore, but it failed to elicit anything more than a case of accidental drowning. It was clearly established that Pierce, like his companions in the boat, was more or less under the influence of liquor; that the craft had suddenly sprung a leak and sunk, and that the deceased, instead of making an effort to save himself, went down and perished. After satisfying themselves as to the circumstances of the drowning, the jury returned the following verdict:

An inquest taken at Portland, Oregon, before J A Wetmore, Coroner of Multnomah county, upon the body of Wm H Pierce, formerly of Plymouth, England, do say upon our oaths, that the said Pierce came to his death by accidental drowning, while crossing the Willamette river in a leaky boat at or about 9 o'clock P M on the 22d of August 1874.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Business men going to New York will find the Brandreth House, corner of Broadway, Canal and Lispenard streets, the most convenient and best situated hotel in the city. It is in the very centre of the largest business houses and all points can be reached from its door by city cars or by omnibuses. Parties can reach the Brandreth House by the various city cars or omnibuses running from the stations and landings. The hotel being situated on three open streets, and not surrounded by other buildings, is more free from the dangers of fire than most hotels. It is conducted on the European plan and has just been put in thorough good order, making it one of the most [illegible] comfortable houses in New York. See [illegible] in our advertising columns.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

This evening, being the third anniversary of the Portland Turn Verein, will take place at [illegible] Hall. Though early in the season for indoor dancing, we have no doubt but that [illegible] Hall will be comfortably filled as the Turners never fail to make their sociable affairs enjoyable to all. That is [illegible].

As we were passing the White House on Saturday we observed the ladies [illegible] the windows and wondered what it was that attracted their attention. Upon [illegible] we discovered a display of [illegible], which are all the rage in San Francisco. We learned that Mrs Hopkinson will [illegible] brought them up on the last steamer. SELF-MURDER.

MARX SILVERMAN, A YOUNG GERMAN, COMMITS SUICIDE IN EAST PORTLAND ON SATURDAY EVENING—HE DELIBERATELY SHOOTS HIMSELF TWICE WITH A REVOLVER—LEAVES A LETTER BEHIND—CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE STARTLING AFFAIR.

Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock the community in East Portland was startled by the intelligence that a case of self-murder had occurred in their midst. The victim was a young man named Marx Silverman, brother in law of Leopold Barman, a merchant of East Portland. Great excitement followed the announcement, and soon crowds had assembled at the scene of the self-committed murder which took place at the residence of Mr L Barman. Connected with this sad and in some respects rather remarkable case of suicide, is the following train of CIRCUMSTANCES.

Marx Silverman was a very young man—a boy in fact—about eighteen years of age. Last fall he left Germany and came to New York, where he was engaged in a store with an uncle. Difficulties of a trivial character arose between the uncle and nephew, resulting in young Silverman quitting the former's employ. Soon after Mr Barman, who stood in need of some assistant, sent to New York for Marx, furnishing him the means to come to Oregon. Silverman arrived here last March, and soon after entered his brother in law's store in the capacity of book keeper and assistant salesman. From the time young Silverman arrived up to the time he perpetrated the terrible deed he stopped at the residence of his sister, the wife of L Barman. Everything wore along smoothly for a time, and Marx seemed contented and happy with his surroundings. Several months ago some trifling misunderstanding arose between himself and sister which culminated in an estrangement continuing up to the time of Silverman's death. Notwithstanding the fact that Marx and Mrs Barman were not on speaking terms, and the relations existing between the two were not of the most pleasant nature, he continued to board and lodge at the house. Differences followed between the brothers in law resulting in the discharge of Marx. Subsequently he was taken back into the employ of Mr Barman, where he remained until last Saturday, when he again left the store. Soon after we learn he came over to the Cosmopolitan Hotel and engaged a room.

DURING THE WHOLE OF SATURDAY

Nothing unusual was noted in the conduct of Silverman. To all outward appearances he seemed gay and cheerful. About 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Marx was engaged assisting several boys in unloading some hay. After that he left the boys and went to his brother-in-law's house, which was the last seen of him alive. Finding no one at the house, his sister having come on a visit to this city, and his brother in law being engaged at the store, Marx went down to where the Chinese cook lived and obtained one of the keys. He then returned, entered by way of the back door, which he locked securely, leaving the key on the inside. Appearances indicated that Silverman had gone to his room, pulled off his coat and vest, laid them on the bed, taken off several rings from his fingers, deposited them in a small paper box, which was lying on the bureau, and then deliberately shot himself. Before completing the work of self destruction Silverman shot himself twice—once in the region of the heart, and again in the right temple, near the eye. Dr Mack, who made the examinations, pronounced each shot necessarily fatal, although the balls discharged were both quite small.

Shortly after the fatal deed had been committed it was ascertained that the house was locked up and Marx missing. An effort was made to get into the house but without success. At length a key was procured and admission gained. On entering the room the brother in law was horrified to discover Marx lying on his face, with the fatal weapon under him, stone dead. He had seated himself on a trunk, and, after discharging the pistol, pitched forward, face down on the floor. The head was resting on the left forearm, the right hand grasping the butt of the pistol. Scarcely a vestige of blood was found in the apartment or on the clothes of the deceased, the orifices in each case being closed up—so small was the ball—and the hemorrhage taking place internally. One side of the face was blackened and powder burnt, the muzzle of the weapon having doubtless been pressed against the temple. Silverman had shot himself in the body first and then to make sure work applied the weapon to his head and blew his brains out. Immediately the alarm was given, and a crowd assembled.

Deposited in the paper box alongside the rings of the deceased, was found the sum of $257 in gold notes and twenty dollar pieces.

EXPLANATORY LETTER.

A letter was found lying on the bureau, evidently written by the deceased just prior to the commission of the deed. It was written with a pencil in the German language. We have obtained a literal translation of the letter, which reads as follows:

DEAR ROSA AND LEOPOLD: I have treated you tremendously wrong, and with the sting of remorse I pay it with my life. For God's sake I beg for your pardon and forgiveness for the horrible deed which I have committed. An indescribable unheard of transgression I have committed against our old father. He never had a minute's joy through me, therefore I come to this horrible and shameful conclusion. Forgive me, and do not curse me in the grave. Sell all that belongs to me and pay my expenses. I have myself brought you into misery and I too perish on account of it. How happy I have entered this room, in what circumstance do I leave it!

The weapon with which the deed was perpetrated was a small revolver of very fine workmanship. It was purchased by the deceased some weeks ago. When asked at the time, by his brother in law, why he bought such a costly weapon and what use he had for a pistol, Marx replied he expected that he (Marx) should have use for it. Since the suicide we learn that the deceased has of late made several strange remarks to his comrades touching his death, such as "I expect soon to be in Heaven," and like expressions, of which little note was taken at the time.

THE VERDICT.

Coroner Wetmore was notified of the affair as soon as practicable. He repaired to the scene with all haste and, after summoning a jury, proceeded to hold an inquest. After a careful examination the following verdict was rendered:

We, the undersigned jury summoned by Coroner J A Wetmore to inquire into the cause of the death of Marx Silverman, find that the deceased was a native of Germany, eighteen years of age, and that he came to his death from pistol shot wounds inflicted by his own hands while in a fit of temporary insanity on the 29th day of August A D 1874, at the residence of Leopold Barman, in East Portland, Multnomah county, Oregon. J D McFARLAND, Foreman. F M Manning, Gustave Struble, Chas Bartel, John Lizotte, Adam Bobe.

The deed seems to have been perpetrated with a degree of nerve, deliberation and coolness scarcely to be expected in a youth. So far as the public are able to determine no cause can be assigned for the deed further than the tenor of the above letter would serve to throw light.

Deceased was a young man of liberal education and possessed of a quick active mind. Yesterday the funeral obsequies took place from the residence of the brother in law in East Portland.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

The Arcadians added another victory to their already large list on Friday at Cape Disappointment, where they vanquished the club at that place by a score of 27 to 15. On Saturday they were to play the Fort Stevens club, the best organization they have had to meet, and Sunday the return game was to be played with the [illegible] club [illegible]. The boys have [illegible] over and play at [illegible]. Letters from the tourists indicate that they have been treated handsomely at every point.

Thompson of the Pioneers and [illegible] of the St George made the largest number of runs. The participants indulged in base ball at the close of the Cricket game—the entire programme being carried out from 2 to 6 P M. [illegible].

The tomahawk of Tecumseh, the great Chief of the Shawnee Indians and the hero of the War of 1812 is now in the Museum. It is placed there by Mr [illegible].

PRESENTATION.

The members of the Portland Bar and friends of Judge Upton paid him a very high compliment on Saturday evening by waiting upon him in a body at his residence and presenting him with an elegant gold watch and chain upon the occasion of his retirement from the bench. The presentation speech was made by L. A. Gruun Esq, who said:

JUDGE UPTON: As you are now about to retire from the office of Justice of the Supreme Court we, as members of the Portland Bar, have called to express to you our appreciation of your services as a Judge and our respect for you as a man and a citizen.

Nearly seven years ago you assumed the duties and responsibilities incident to the position, and from that time until the present your labors in discharging the duties of the office have been unremitting. We as lawyers know that the office is no sinecure, but that in performing its manifold duties learning and industry are indispensable. These qualities happily you brought to the bench, and have so exercised them as to command our unqualified approbation. We have therefore thought proper to present to you this testimonial as a token of the regard in which you are held by the members of the bar. Please accept it and with it the best wishes of your professional brethren, who should you determine to enter again into the active practice of the law will heartily welcome you as one justly entitled to our confidence and esteem.

HIS HONOR'S REPLY.

Judge Upton in response referred with emotion to the kindness of his brethren of the Bar, to the grateful feelings that overwhelmed him for the moment at this unexpected expression of regard and expressed his gratitude not only for the elegant token, the kind and flattering assurances of the gentlemen who presented it, but especially for the continuance of friendship and esteem manifested by the unexpected visit. After expressions of deep gratitude the Judge referred to the courteous treatment he had uniformly received at the hands of the Bar while presiding in Court and said: "The kindness of this visit and this valued token of your continued esteem give me an assurance that my efforts to fill the distinguished position which I am now about to leave have not wholly disappointed expectation, and that the years and more of strenuous effort I have made to discharge the duties of the high and responsible position, to the honor of myself and to the advantage of the community to whom my duties were owed have not been wholly lost. This elegant and to me inestimable gift, will be a constant reminder of your courtesy and forbearance during my term and an assurance of a continuance of your esteem. You have been pleased to assure me in eloquent and gratifying but too flattering words of their kind sentiments toward me, and I assure you and my brethren of the Bar that their friendship is prized beyond what I am able to express and will be all time be held by me among the richest treasures of memory, and will be a cheering resource in the future. This unlooked for manifestation of your kind feelings and the responsive emotions I feel at the present moment come from that trait peculiar to the discipline of our profession that schools its members to leave in the arena all personal traces of the conflict. There is not one of you, perhaps, who has not at times felt keen disappointment in cases where your views have differed from mine, but the same training that enables the counselor to contend intellectually, in all earnestness for the maintenance of his convictions of the truth without awakening anger or fostering resentment, enables the disciplined lawyer when he is confident of his position but fails to convince the Court, to submit to the candid although perhaps erroneous convictions of the tribunal without attributing unworthy motives or mingling with his disappointment a shade of resentment. I know some of my infirmities too well to dare to take to myself all the credit your kindness has been pleased to award me. It is not in the reach of one man to be cognizant of every department of the law. No one can master a knowledge of all that has gone before him or in all things keep pace with the tide of contemporaneous events. If I may hope I have in general come up to the standard expectation, had assigned and in some particulars exceeded it, if I may hope I have aided in advancing the profession in some directions, and have retained the friendship and esteem of my brethren, I am rewarded for the exertions I have made. And may I not hope that unremitting effort will be accepted as an excuse for short comings.

In looking over the past seven years I recall so many occasions on which in unguarded moments I have given unnecessary pain—have appeared unkind to those toward whom I entertained the kindest feelings and even warm friendship. I have sometimes been filled with regret. But thus assured of your continued esteem for which I have so much reason to be grateful, coming from friends whom I have so often crossed, it not offended, shows that allowance has been made for human infirmity—for times of illness, of over work, of anxieties and cares—on subjects not connected with the trial or other proceeding in court and that however undeservedly I still possess your confidence, esteem and friendship. This cherished token will ever remind me of your forbearance and assure me that I still retain your confidence and friendship which I prize above all price in the same eminent degree in which I know I possessed them before I entered on the performance of the arduous and responsible duties of the position which I am about to leave. I may say since I am speaking to friends, that all who knew me well at the time I entered upon these duties, know that I was not influenced to take the office by the pecuniary compensations attached to it, and that I assumed its responsibilities upon higher and nobler considerations. An attachment and devotion to the profession to which my life has been devoted and a pride in that profession common to us all, is the only motive that can induce any experienced lawyer to indulge in the expensive luxury of holding the position—a luxury, if such it may be in which I have no desire again to indulge.

You will permit me to say I entered on these duties with the fullest resolve to devote all my powers to their faithful discharge, and never for one moment have I felt in the smallest degree a disposition to deviate from that resolution. In many things I have come short of my hopes—often for lack of ability on my part—sometimes you will permit me to say, for lack of looked for co-operation which I had anticipated without considering all the obstacles. I trust the Bar has awarded me and ever will award me credit for continuous effort during my official term to encourage and maintain as far as I have been able, systematic modes in practice and the honor of the profession to which we belong. Gentlemen permit me again to express my most heartfelt thanks for this elegant token for your call for your kind but too flattering assurances, but above all highly as I shall treasure this elegant token of your regard infinitely higher shall I ever appreciate that moral support you have given me in the performance of the very arduous duties that devolve on the judge who presides in this district. I am about to retire from a high and honorable position—in my opinion much the highest and [illegible] within the gift of the State. I am about to turn over the office to a most worthy successor with full confidence it will be ably filled and its duties faithfully discharged.

With lively appreciation of the honor of the position and with feelings of gratitude and I may say pride in having been thus honored, I retire from the position without a regret for the change that will relieve me from its responsibilities and place me again with you as a colaborer at the Bar."

TOASTS, ETC.

At the conclusion of the presentation the guests were invited to partake of a repast which had been prepared. At the table Col Chapman was called on and gave as a toast: "The Judiciary of Oregon [illegible] in the future as in the past [illegible] a firm [illegible] [illegible] with the equal and exact justice in accordance with our Constitution and that of the United States."

Judge [illegible] proposed "The successor of Judge Upton [illegible] [illegible] with our best hopes [illegible]."

The toasts were heartily drunk, cordiality filled the room and all went away feeling well over the pleasant affair.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Twenty-Second Annual Convocation.

SECOND DAY—FORENOON SESSION.

After morning prayer in the church by the Bishop and others of the clergy, the Convocation met for business in the chapel at 10 A M.

The minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read and approved.

The report of the Committee on Oregon Churchman was read and discussed. Rev Mr Nicholson was appointed publisher of the paper.

The following were appointed Committee on the paper: Rev J H Babcock, editor; Rev A S Nicholson, publisher and financial agent; A Noltner Esq.

The Committee on the State of the Church reported through their chairman, Rev Mr Burton. The interesting topics embraced in this report were fully discussed and a resolution was adopted requesting the General Convention to form a new missionary jurisdiction comprising Eastern Oregon and Idaho. We give below the report:

The Committee on the State of the Church beg leave respectfully to report: That they have heard with great thankfulness to Almighty God from whom alone all increase comes of the encouraging condition of the Church in this jurisdiction. The Bishop's address so fully and appropriately covers the whole ground that your Committee have nothing left to do but call upon the clergy and laity of this mission to join our right reverend father in God in devout gratitude to the great Head of the Church for His blessings in the past and in earnest prayer for a continuance and increase of the same inestimable gift in the future. The condition of the schools, the thorough work of our missionary appointments and the number of new churches in course of construction, are peculiarly gratifying. In the Good Samaritan Hospital and Orphanage we also recognize a most blessed work deserving the support and sympathy of all who name the name of Him who came to build up the broken hearted. The division of the Diocese seems to this Committee a matter of the utmost importance. It is hoped that an opportunity may offer during the next session of the General Convention in which our Bishop may be able to introduce this measure to the notice of that body and carry it through to a successful issue. We would also recommend to the clerical and lay deputies who may be appointed to represent this mission in General Convention that they may be familiar with the present condition and future prospects of the Church in Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho, in order that this motion may come in a proper light before all members of said General Convention.
GEORGE BURTON, Chairman.

The following gentlemen were chosen to represent the Convocation in the General Convention of the Church which is to meet in New York next October:

Clerical—Rev C R Bonnell, delegate; Rev J H Wells, substitute.

Lay—Hon Matthew P Deady, delegate; Dr J Glisan, substitute.

Adjourned till 2 P M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convocation assembled at the hour appointed, the Bishop presiding.

The Secretary read his report on assessments for printing the journal of 1873.

The Convocation then discussed the special order of the day, viz: The subject of requesting the General Convention to consider the expediency of expressly declaring the right of the Bishop to order what portions of the Book of Common Prayer shall be used at missionary stations.

The Bishop announced the following persons to constitute the Standing Committee: Rev Geo Burton, Rev J H Babcock, Gen P Hamilton and Dr R B Wilson.

The Bishop announced the adoption of the Canons of the Diocese of Maine as the Canons of this missionary jurisdiction for the ensuing year.

On motion the thanks of this Convocation were returned to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, to the Willamette Transportation Company, the Pacific railroad, the Oregon and California railroad, the Oregon Central railroad, the North Western Stage Company, and Vancouver Steamboat Company, for the complimentary and half fare tickets granted to the Pacific clergy during the year and to the delegates in attendance at this Convocation; and also to Rev T A Wood for complimentary tickets to visit the Oregon Museum.

After the usual devotional services conducted by the Bishop, the Convocation adjourned sine die.

CLOSING SERVICES.

At 11 o'clock the Bishop and clergy entered the chancel of Trinity Church, singing an appropriate processional hymn. Several of the clergy assisted in the services. The singing was hearty and joined in by the congregation generally. The Bishop's sermon was on the subject of the Divine Institution of the Ministry, their right to an adequate support, which it is the people's duty to supply. The discourse was plain, pointed and practical. The Holy Communion was celebrated, a goodly number partaking.

In the evening a Missionary meeting was held at Trinity Church. After evening prayer, addresses, full of feeling, interest and energy were made by Revs S H Wells, J W Sellwood, R D Nevius, D D and C H Bonnell.

The Bishop then addressed the clergy in a few words full of comfort and counsel. We give this short address elsewhere.

Services were also held at St David's, East Portland, Trinity Mission, where two children were baptized, and St Stephen's Chapel, where one infant received the same Holy sacrament. The utmost harmony as well as earnestness has characterized all the proceedings of the twenty-second meeting of this missionary jurisdiction.

BISHOP MORRIS' CLOSING ADDRESS.

With these services closes the twenty second session of our Convocation. I am glad to be able to say that, like others before it, it has been one of entire peace and harmony. Not a harsh or discourteous word has been heard throughout its deliberations. Something has been done, I trust, to strengthen the ties of brotherhood and to put forward the great work in which we are engaged. I go from it with your clerical, and I hope with a lay representative also to the General Council of the Church soon to convene in the city of New York. I am to make report there of our labors for the last three years and of the condition and prospects of our work for the future, and this large body of Bishops, Clergy and Laity gathered from all parts of our Union will have committed to their action the most important subjects concerning the progress and welfare of the Church. They need the devout prayers of all faithful people for wise guidance in their great work and I request that during its sittings from the 7th to the 28th of October the prayer appointed for that purpose may be said in all our services of public worship. It would be well also to use it in your family and private devotions that you may the better realize the unity of the brotherhood and the living communion of the saints, while your prayers too go up to God that this council may be directed, sanctified and governed by the mighty power of the Holy Ghost and that the comfortable Gospel of Christ may be truly preached, truly received and truly followed in all places.

One can hardly look forward to such a gathering, to review the history of past years without sending his thoughts on to the [illegible] [illegible] when after all our earthly labors are done we shall meet the final audit before the everlasting throne.

Brethren do we always try and labor with that thought impressed on our minds. Surely we are striving so to do. Since that Council of Christ's last session three years ago, eight of the Fathers of the Church, and more than fifty of the clergy have gone to that reckoning. Our ranks have not unbroken but time never [illegible] doing her arrest [illegible] work, and everything admonishes us to work and watch for the Lord's coming. Do we need anything to our [illegible] to cheer [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] end at the [illegible] work. Is any one tried up to [illegible] point after labor by the indifference, the heartless [illegible] of [illegible] ever of those who have [illegible] [illegible] to have had their eyes opened and [illegible] the [illegible] word of God [illegible] any one [illegible] repaid with ingratitude and scorn for the best [illegible] for good and the most self denying services. [illegible] it strange concerning the trial which is trying him as though some strange thing had happened unto him. He surely knew what all this world could do when he took his hand to this work. He surely knew that the disciple is not above his master and that as it had been done in the green tree so would it be done in the dry. I know of no thought better to calm our hearts [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of our work and to make us brave and hopeful for the future than that of the consulting [illegible] word of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and the power and the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that he that [illegible] I would direct your hearts. The kingdom is God's; therefore it must come, be established and prevail. When all things are ready He shall stretch forth His sceptre and claim universal dominion. His is the power. God's power is supreme everywhere. And in due time it will be manifested in behalf of His Church. His is the glory. To Him all things must yet bow in humiliation in the ascription of everlasting glory to Him that sitteth upon the throne and to the Lamb.

Shall we doubt or fear for anything then that He has promised? Surely not. Let us take heart then brethren one and all in our work. The day wears on, but let us not slack our labors nor lay off our burden. Nothing in this life—toil, trial, sufferings—are worthy to be compared with the revelation of the great day, when the chief shepherd shall appear with that crown of glory that fadeth not away.

Mid toil and tribulation
And tumult of our war
We wait the consummation
Of peace forevermore
Till with the vision glorious
Our longing eyes are blest,
And the great Church victorious
Shall be the Church at rest.

And now brethren I commend you to God and to the word of His grace which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among them that are sanctified.

THE STAGE.

Madame Bishop and troupe gave a performance at Oregon City on Saturday to a good audience, and this evening they will entertain the Astoria folks who may expect a treat. Seats for the testimonial to Madame Bishop can be obtained at Steel's Music Store from Mr DePrans.

Dr Haskell spoke to a large audience last evening at Oro Fino Theater on the subject of the Magdalen. This evening he will lecture on the subject of "Twenty five years on the Stage and with a Circus." Admission free. He proposes to organize a band of "Young Warriors" such as was organized at Salem. He extends a cordial invitation to all the boys and girls of the city. Dr Haskell will lecture at Vancouver to-morrow evening, at Hillsboro on Thursday and at Olympia on Saturday evening.

Help Nature to Rally.

After an attack of fever or other acute disease has passed off and nature is endeavoring to rally the debilitated system, help the effort with the standard vegetable tonic of the age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Nothing known to the physician or the pharmacopolist expedites convalescence like this vitalizing invigorant. Persons who have been prostrated by long continued sickness recover their lost flesh, strength and cheerfulness in less than half the time that would be [illegible] to recuperate without it. It is the most genial as well as the most harmless of medicated stimulants, and as a remedy for as well as a preventive of dyspepsia, bilious attacks, constipation, nervous diseases, &c., has no equal in the world. When all other tonics have failed this effects a cure.

HOW MANY LITTLE SUFFERERS are wasting away from the effects of Cholera Infantum or summer complaint! And yet a remedy sure, prompt and thorough, readily administered and entirely safe, with reputation established by its merit, and maintained over the whole country for a series of years as a standard curative for Cramps, Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus and all Diseases of the Bowels, can be readily obtained in Dr Jayne's Carminative Balsam. Why not give it a trial.

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 31 1874

A PARLIAMENTARY INCIDENT IN THE FRENCH ASSEMBLY.

MEMBER [illegible] ANOTHER THE LIE—VIOLENT SCENE—THE PRESIDENT'S HAT AND ITS USES

Paris Aug 3 1874

Another of those strange scenes which the French call parliamentary incidents occurred in the Assembly on Saturday. I give it at length not only as an example of French parliamentary manners, but in order to show the state of exasperation which now exists among the various parties. Let me say, however, that this scene was coolly and calmly planned, and for a definite purpose. In order to counterbalance the election of Philippe de Bourgoing, the famous circular "found in a first-class railway carriage" was fabricated and used. It was to raise a storm against the Bonapartists that M. Gambetta used the word "wretches," and it was to cover up other things that so much noise was made about the Bonapartist perquisitions. In the present case the real cause is the coming election for Calvados. M. Prevost De Launay, a popular Prefect under the Empire, is so certain of success that no popular Republican can be found willing to run against him. In order to stop his progress among the people it was deemed necessary to make another coup, it being regarded as certain that the Bonapartists would reply hotly, and perhaps put themselves in the wrong. This was the main object of the incident of Saturday, and it was thought that the Government might be induced to throw its influence against M. De Launay, if the Chamber showed itself hostile to the Bonapartist Deputies. Here it is common for all parties to say that the previous Governments of their enemies fell under public contempt. In his memoirs of the 4th September M. Jules Simon says that the Empire fell under the burden of contempt heaped upon it by all honest men. The other day M. Brisson said in the tribune, that the monarchy fell beneath the reprobation and disgust of the public. Instances of the kind might be multiplied to almost any extent, for nothing is more common than such expressions of opinion in the tribune and in the press. But on Saturday such an expression was seized upon as the basis of the meditated attack upon the Bonapartists. The following is a translation of the official report:

M. Buffet presided and announced the order of the day. The report of the previous session was read.

M. Schoelcher—Gentlemen, I read in the official report of Friday's sitting that M. Galloni D'Istria said: "The Republic fell beneath the contempt and horror of all honest men."

M. Cazot—That should be said of the 2d December. (Noise.)

M. Schoelcher—None of us heard these words, or we should have taken them up as they deserved. I ask M. Galloni D'Istria—

Several Deputies—He is not here.

M. Schoelcher—I ask him if it is true that he uttered these words?

A Member of the Right—Certainly!

M. Schoelcher—And in that case if he maintains them?

M. De Gavardie—I maintain them for him.

M. Schoelcher—In that case I say, Sir, that you are a liar! (Explosion of indignation from the Right and Centre. Loud cries of "Order! order!" with "Hear! hear!" on some benches of the Left.)

The President—I cannot allow one member of this Assembly to address another in such terms. Monsieur Schoelcher, I call you to order. (Hear! hear! from the Right and Centre.)

M. Jules Simon—Why, Monsieur le President, did you allow one half of the Assembly to be insulted? And how can you censure the reply when you did not protest against the offense? (Exclamations and murmurs on the Right; general agitation.)

The President—It can never be admitted that in an Assembly a member may say to one of his colleagues "You are a liar!" (Hear! hear! You are quite right.)

M. Schoelcher—I beg your pardon. I was insulted personally.

M. Jules Simon—Words which were an outrage on the Assembly, on history and on public morals, were not repressed. It was an insult to which we could not submit. (Murmurs.)

The President—There was no personal offense. (Exclamations on the Left.) Opinions were put forward in this Assembly, and, whether they were just or unjust, they were not personal insults. (Loud dissent on the Left.) But when outrageous language is addressed to a deputy I cannot tolerate it. (Applause.)

M. Schoelcher—M. De Gavardie used offensive words to me, a Republican of 1848, and one of the proscribed of the 2d December.

M. Jules Simon—I repeat that the words uttered yesterday are an indignity toward the country, history, and morality. Our protest will be entered on the minutes. (Noise.) It would seem that we are in the Assembly only to be insulted. It is time for that to finish. (Increased agitation and murmurs.)

The President—If the tumult continues I shall suspend the sitting. (Noise.)

M. De Gavardie—I ask, gentlemen, for a moment's silence. I am anxious to explain the words which escaped me. ("Ah! ah!" on the Left.)

M. Jules Simon—But the language against which we protest was not uttered by you.

M. Schoelcher—If you withdraw the words there is an end to the matter.

M. De Gavardie—But I do not. (Exclamations on the Left.)

M. Schoelcher—Then I maintain the lie I gave you. (Increased agitation.)

M. De Gavardie—I am anxious to explain the words which I repeat escaped me. (Loud interruption on the Left.) It was under the impression of the remark made by M. Brisson, one of you. (Well! on the Left.) Hear me out.

M. Scheurer Kestner—We are listening to you, but do not give yourself those airs.

M. De Gavardie—It is you who give yourselves airs. (Laughter and noise.) I employed the language with which I am reproached under the Empire of a painful sentiment, (interruptions on the Left) caused by the recollection of words used in the previous sitting. It was then said "the Monarchy fell under the public reprobation."

M. De Gavardie—What does that mean?

Several Deputies on the Left—There is a difference. That is not the contempt of all honest men!

M. Brisson—Will you allow me to say a word? (Noise.)

The President—No, I cannot permit a discussion which is quite foreign to the minutes.

M. De Gavardie—Did not the Monarchy also in your opinion fall beneath the contempt of all honest men?

On the Left—No. M. Brisson did not say that.

M. De Gavardie—Well, I maintain the words I used. (Murmurs on the Left.) I say that they escaped me, yet I persist in them. (Fresh uproar on the same side of the Assembly.)

M. Schoelcher—I maintain also the lie I gave you, and which did not escape me.

The President—And I maintain the call to order. (Great agitation.)

Here M. Galloni D'Istria entered the Chamber.

M. Galloni D'Istria—I was not present when M. Schoelcher entered the tribune. I am informed that he asked whether the words I uttered in reply to M. Gambetta were these: "The Republic fell beneath the contempt and reprobation, or horror, of all honest men," and whether I acknowledge them. I have nothing to withdraw, and I maintain that remark. (Loud protests on the Left.)

M. Schoelcher—Then I declare that you have uttered an infamous falsehood. (Violent uproar.)

M. Testelin, Ordinaire, Jules Barni, Lockroy and several other members of the Left rush to the foot of the tribune and apostrophized M. Galloni D'Istria in words which could not be heard in consequence of the tumult.

The President—Gentlemen, return to your seats. Such scenes are deplorable and compel me to suspend the sitting.

THE PRESIDENT'S HAT

At these words M. Buffet took up his hat with a movement of anger, and clapped it sideways upon his head. He turned it straight at once and quickly left the room. This reminds one of the session when M. De Saint Marc Girardin presided and being forced to used his hat in order to call the house to order took M. De Morny's instead and brought it down to his shoulders like an extinguisher. M. Buffet put his on like the hat of a gendarme. The hat has an important part in French parliamentary struggles. Noisy members who will not heed the bell grow quiet instantly when the Speaker reaches for his hat. Many amusing stories are told of its use. During his long term of office Philippe Dupin wore the same hat. He also wore cotton trowsers all the year round and thick soled brogans full of iron nails. He had a habit of putting his hat under the desk before him, and it is said that he rarely failed to flatten it under his brogans whenever his friend Berryer grew particularly eloquent. He stamped upon it while applauding, in fancy, thinking probably how he would have stamped it in another place. One day he was forced to use his hat, and drawing it out from under his feet he clapped it hastily upon his head. As Dupin went out with dignity he was followed by a roar of laughter and he could not understand it until a friend called attention to the state of his tile. It looked like the typical [illegible] of the [illegible] in the illustrations of temperance tracts. To revert to the above scene, I may say that a duel is looked for between the parties and that M. Buffet was called upon yesterday to act as peacemaker. Whether or not he will succeed [illegible] remains to be seen.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial

SATURDAY EVENING Aug 29 1874

Gold in New York 110¼.

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying [illegible] selling 91¼.

Sight exchange on San Francisco, coin at par; currency ½ of 1 per cent. prem.

Sight exchange on New York, coin ½ of one per cent. prem. and currency ½ of one per cent.

Gold bars 7½.

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco, 10s 6d@10s 10d for average California, and 11 [illegible] for club.

Private telegrams from Liverpool to-day quote cargo lots much lower than the above figures, at 9s 1s 10s.

In local money matters everything is very quiet and without much prospect of immediate revival. There is no special call which is not met with readiness on moderate terms.

The imports of foreign merchandise at New York for July show a value of $33,207,[illegible] a gain of $[illegible] 000 over the same month last year though nearly $5,000,000 less than for the same month in 1872. The duties paid on these imports amounted to $7,6[illegible],600 or less than 30 per cent. of the cost at the place of shipment. The exports of produce and merchandise from New York for July amounted to $26,[illegible] 400, an increase of upwards of $1,800,000 as compared with the same month of last year, and over $6,000,000 in excess of the [illegible] month in 1872. This is a very good showing for what is [illegible] a dull month in the export trade of that port, on account of its being at the end of the crop year. Usually there is a heavy drain of [illegible] in July to fill the void occasioned by light produce exports, but last month only a trifle over $2,500,000 in specie and bullion was shipped from New York, against over $10,000,000 for the same month last year and upwards of $17,000,000 in 1872.

We are informed by an exporter of wheat that our calculation of the cost and profit on wheat shipments was very nearly correct, had we given the Liverpool price at 9s 3d in [illegible] of [illegible]. At these figures there must be a loss of near $[illegible] 000 on a 1,000 ton [illegible] bought here at $1 45 per cental.

[illegible] Wool Market.

The Colonial [illegible] sales of wool at London on the 18th of August [illegible] with a full attendance of buyers. The prices of unwashed Australian were a half penny dearer than last sales, Cape half a penny to one [illegible] higher. Competition was good. The sales in the market for the week comprise about 500,000 pounds, mainly at 34@35c for preferred clip, 19@20c for [illegible] ditto, 26@27c for good fall clip, 20a21c for [illegible], and 40@50c for pulled. [illegible] Nevada brought 40c.

A dispatch from Boston dated Aug. 22d says the demand for wool the past week has been fully up. The sales of domestic and foreign fleeces are up ward of 2,300,000 pounds, and the leading manufacturers are more anxious than for some weeks past to receive shipments of lots of fine fleece. Some of the largest mills in New England have been free purchasers and offers for round lots have been made and declined that would add largely to the sales. Holders have such confidence in the failure of the wool market that they fail to accept the current prices for their most desirable fine fleeces, and there is a firmer feeling than for some time past. Pacific coast wool has attracted attention the past week and the sales this summer are near 600,000 pounds. The prices are good for all lots in good condition and very extreme figures have been realized for the best choice, which sold at 42@[illegible]c. The bulk of the sales have been in the range of 33@37c. 66,000 pounds sold at 37@[illegible], of which a good portion was at the latter rate. This does not show any failing on Pacific coast wool but on the contrary full prices have been obtained and the lots that are on the market are burry and heavy and could only be sold at low figures.

Miscellaneous.

On the 16th of August four vessels arrived at San Francisco from the sound named stc. as follows: Ship Commodore from Port Ludlow, with 870,000 feet of lumber and 900,000 laths; bark Jenny Pitts from Freeport, with 3[illegible],000 feet of lumber; barkentine W. H. Gawley from Port Madison, with 500,000 feet of lumber, 500,000 laths, 40 ship knees and 300 boxes herring; barkentine Freemont, from Port Blakely, with 325,000 feet of lumber, 100,000 laths and 800 railroad ties.

Manilla dates of July 21st state that cordage had been advanced to $12 00 for three-strand. Hemp had also advanced, and was selling at $7@7 25. Sugar was quoted at $1 57½@4 10 for superior and $4 75 for extra. Coffee was selling at $20 75a21 per picul, and for lots in store $2[illegible] was asked. Flour $5 50.

At Hongkong when the last steamer sailed, flour was firmer, the closing prices being $1 40@1 50 for No 1 and $1 25@1 [illegible] for No 2 in quarter sacks California wheat, $2 20@2 2[illegible] per picul. Quicksilver $1 5 per picul. Rice was a shade higher under a demand for shipment, closing at $1 80@1 90 for No 1 China and $2 15@[illegible] 20 for Siam. Sugar, $6 80@6 40 for No 1 white and $3 80@[illegible] 90 for No 1 brown. Nutmeg, $[illegible] 15. Cassia $12 in cases. Black pepper $11 50@11 [illegible]. Cloves, $40@41 per picul. Bar silver, $98 fine ¾@2¼ per cent. premium. Mexican dollars ¾ per cent. premium.

THE UNDERSIGNED THANKING THE PUBLIC for the very liberal patronage bestowed upon that favorite Summer Resort the past season, informs visitors that

The Hotel is Now Open for the Reception of Guests.

Many improvements dictated by the past year's experience have been made conducive to the comfort and pleasure of visitors. Among the many are our Large Swings for the little folks, Shuffle Board is a splendid exercise for Ladies, Quoit Grounds for Gentlemen, Horseback Trail to the top of Grand Old Tillamook, Croquet Ground as usual. The River Fleet of Boats is increased to ten in number and the subscriber takes pleasure in informing his aquatic friends that he has constructed a splendid Boat, capable of carrying thirty persons with comfort. In fact nothing has been left undone to make this truly sanitary spot the most pleasant and attractive upon the Pacific coast.

"OCULIST" and "OPTICIAN" are regarded as synonymous terms by nearly all classes of the community. Ophthalmic Surgeons fail in their duty if they do not teach the public that an Oculist alone can make a proper and correct examination of the human eye and decide what glass, and whether any should be worn, by the patient, and the Optician's business should be confined entirely to preparing and setting in a proper frame the glass directed by the former, exactly as an Apothecary compounds and puts up the medicine prescribed by the Physician.
